Through the pages of this year's Indian, we have endeavored to transmit our way of life at Arkansas State College by capturing through pictures and words the intangible ASC spirit which emphasizes the betterment of the individual, the unlimited opportunities for those with initiative, cooperation, and magnitude. These constitute the essence of our school. To students it will be the re-living of days past, of laughter, endless lectures, a period that brought a deeper understanding of life, new standards and attitudes, the desire for a democratic future. This is the State Story.

in dedication

It isn't often in our busy daily routines of classes, tests, reports, social and athletic activities, studies, meetings, and other events, that we have time to really tell you, Mom and Dad, just how we feel about your part in our college life. Even when we come home for holidays, we are likely to be running around with old friends, visiting, partying, and many other things that take our time, and then we forget to say those little things that we had meant to say.

However, there are so many times when thoughts do run through our minds and we reflect on what you have done to enable us to attend college to broaden our minds and become better citizens. Yes, maybe it is late at night when everything is quiet, after a serious chapel program, or during a lecture that we think about your sacrifices. Some of the things you have given us can be measured. It is easy to compute how much money you have spent on tuition, books, room, and travel. It is possible to determine how much of your time, precious time, that has been spent doing things for us that make it feasible for us to be here.

Much more difficult to calculate are the intangible things you have contributed: the inspiration that you gave us which made us desire an education; the encouragement that you have given, in person and in your letters, when we found the going rough; the faith that you have evidenced at all times; your constant interest in every small thing that we have done; these and many others are the things that actually mean so much.

Because of your sacrifices for us, we proudly dedicate the 1953 INDIAN to you . . . . OUR PARENTS.

Your sons and daughters

review our friendly campus

Our immediate goals vary greatly, yet we are a closely integrated group. This is an outgrowth of the sincere attitude that prevails here. We do not talk friendliness; we have achieved it.

with students molding careers

establishing new milestones

to equip a consecrate era

The world before us does not listen for excuses, it wants "doers." At State our experiences, as we work and play together, are equipping us for the jobs ahead. We realize that as mature citizens we will be expected to shoulder responsibility.

our community progresses

From our freshman through our senior years, we progress. We make changes—constructive changes—for only through growth do we advance. These changes stress individual service: physical, mental, religious, and social. We strive to be well-rounded in all phases of our maturation.

The Administration Building

schools
faculty campus

Since the signing of Act 100 of the Acts of 1909 establishing four schools of agriculture in the state of Arkansas, each successive year has brought changes for the betterment of our institution. During the first year, 1910, one hundred eighty-nine students enrolled, and while the Administration Building was being completed, the students attended classes on the second floor of one of the business establishments in uptown Jonesboro with students living in private homes until the first dormitories, Barnhart and Lewis, were erected. After the buildings were finished, a federal highway, the first in the state, was built to the college.

In 1925 State became Arkansas State Agricultural and Mechanical College. First District. 1929 brought a new building program, first of which was the College Club. The Administration Building burned in 1931 and was reconstructed at a cost of $350,000; however library material, books, records, and other valuable furnishings can never be restored. In 1930 two years of college work was added and the North Central Association recognized State as a standard arts college receiving its membership as a senior college under the name of Arkansas State College, with the authority to grant degrees. This same year brought construction of the Women's Residence Hall and Danner Hall with Commons, the Engineering, Education, Science, Agriculture and other buildings being added later. With the steadily increasing enrollment has come new and adequate curriculum of studies. This year revision placed the schools under ten departments, which form the basis of our modernized, advancing institution. The harmony between these departments received commendation by visiting evaluating teams of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

the president

The numerous improvements made throughout the College this year have stemmed largely from the efforts of our industrious president, Dr. Carl R. Reng. In the two years he has been here he has won the admiration of both students and faculty with his ability to coordinate all the operations of the College efficaciously. The departmental revision, modernization of campus and buildings, and numberless promotions for the institution are indicative of the advancement he has made.

Before coming to Arkansas State College, Dr. Reng attended Buena Vista College, Drake University and the University of Missouri where he received his B. A., M. S. E., and Ph. D. degrees. Buena Vista College later bestowed upon him the honorary degree of L. L. D. During World War II President Reng served as Lt. Commander of the U. S. Navy, and upon his return in 1946 became Professor of the Educational Administration at the University of Arkansas. He remained at the university until he accepted the offer to become President of Arkansas State College.

President Reng is a member of the Masonic Lodge, Phi Delta Kappa, Kappa Delta Pi, the Rotary Club and the Methodist Church. The congeniality which Dr. Reng administers in student associations is an example of the admirable relationship between students and the administration. Under his capable leadership Arkansas State is expanding each year, rapidly becoming a favorite educational center.

These well-known people are responsible for the great undercurrents of activity which keep the college operating steadily day after day. We are awed by their endless appointments, committee meetings, and their ability to accomplish so much. A "trip to the Dean's" or one of the Administration quickly solves any problems we students may have. Through the years' associations as they take an active interest in our studies, extra-curricular and personal life, we realize the value their advice and assistance has been. We will always remember their traits of dignity, character, and service, and the good influences they have been during our years at State.

business administration

CHESTER C. CARROTHERS, A. B., A. M., Ph. D.
Professor of Business Administration

Enrolled in the second largest department in school, Majors in Business Administration keep the fourth floor of the Administration Building buzzing as they meet classes and laboratory schedules. Stenographic, calculating, statistical, secretarial, economic, and general business courses are offered with a curriculum designed to prepare students for participation in the various businesses and occupations of their choice.

During the year the department has entertained representatives from the Federal Reserve Bank in St. Louis, accounting organizations including the local C. P. A. representatives, sales and advertising specialists, regional business leaders from Firestone, American Marketing Association, Southwestern Publishing Company and others. Student field trips have included trips to Plough, Inc., Bruce Lumber Company, Wonder Baking Company, Ford and International Harvester in Memphis as well as many of the local concerns.

A common sight in the Business Department is the laboratory work done in typewriting, calculating machines and other subjects.

The business equipment is relatively new and is being enlarged each year. Calculators, electric typewriters, a dictation and recording machine and dictaphones are among the newest devices. The library collection has added approximately one hundred volumes dealing with business, economics and commercial teaching.

Graduates of the Business Administration field have been highly in demand. At the end of 1952 a number of the graduates moved into finance or other responsible positions in the armed forces. All accounting majors were placed with business or accounting firms needing such trained employees. All teachers were placed in well-paying commercial positions. Economics or B. A. majors are employed in their own businesses, teaching or with some responsible firm. A number of these have received promotions, and the department has a degree of satisfaction in placing each graduating student.

literature and language

LEBELVA CONNELLY

This department offers courses including speech, journalism, literature, languages and grammar. English is required of everyone, so throughout the freshman year themes, term reports, the famous works of literature, poetry and the Purdue Tests rack the brain to finally become useful knowledge. Speech courses develop confidence and self-expression. The Herald, edited by the journalism classes, and the Arrow, composed of student literature and poetry are the two publications of the department.

The language division is headed by Dr. Daniel Pasmore who sponsors Le Cercle Francais and Der Deutsche Verein. Each year these clubs give a Christmas party which has become a tradition on the campus. The debate team schedules debates with colleges throughout the South under the direction of Dr. Frank Plunkett. Through these sources a valuable education can be gained for professional careers in law, journalism, teaching, government and other fields.

social science

HOMER C. HUITT, B. S., A. M., PH. D.
Professor of Social Science

Geography, history, political science, sociology and home economics are the major fields under the Social Science Department. Classroom work is broadened by field trips taken by students in the various courses. Political Science classes visited the local court sessions, and trips to Memphis and Little Rock were made by groups on frequent occasions. Each year a summer tour is conducted offering hours in Geography. The class toured the Southeastern United States and Cuba last summer, and a cruise to Europe and the British Isles is planned for this year.

Host to the Conference of the Southwest Region of College International Relations Clubs last year, the department entertained students and faculty advisors from several colleges and universities in the Southwestern states. Dr. C. T. Miao, Chinese member of the United Nations, addressed the group.

Preparation for such vocations as social work, the ministry, various governmental work, teaching and home economic fields is complete with courses designed to prepare the student for citizenship in the modern world. During the national election, the Pre-Law Club held a Mock Election where strong division of opinions was in evidence. Governmental procedures and developments are taught in an interesting, comprehensive manner to enable the student to better understand his country and to develop responsibility as an individual.

Exam time, term reports, course assignments for research, and general browsing make the library rooms a popular place.

A silent retreat for research and study, the library is a vital element in acquiring an education in any field. Last year, for better accommodation of the student body, the reading room was painted and air-conditioned, and partitions separated the book stacks, magazine and periodical division, and the study section. Research material for all the subject fields are found in the book stacks, and many students are employed to assist those who are unfamiliar with the library system. The Ford Foundation added the Great Book Series to the reference collection, and new equipment and books were purchased, making the library a pleasant and resourceful place in which to study.

The close coordination of the Art, Music and Theater departments brought them under the same department this year under the direction of Dr. Harold Manor. Through this change, the students will be provided with additional opportunities for broader experiences which will enable them to gain a deep and lasting appreciation of the arts.

Through plays, numerous exhibits, concerts, and other contributions, this department adds to the cultural life on the campus and in the area.

The student talent is outstanding for a college this size. In the music field the band, orchestra, choir, ASC Singers, Arkettes and soloists present programs for Chapel and other events. Various classes in art teach design, advertising, house planning, landscaping and painting. One can always find many interesting exhibits in the Art Hall. Through plays and play production many students learn the basic principles of good dramatics. In plays given each year, the performances evince the enormous amount of work put into their production.

The tours of the Arkettes and the Choir as Ambassadors of Arkansas State should also be mentioned. Both groups appeared on television in Memphis and they have presented programs throughout Arkansas and Missouri.

The rapidity with which these three fields have advanced is remarkable, and they will continue to enrich student experiences and provide the necessary stimulus for the cultural growth of the school.

printing

FRANCIS D. MODLIN, B. S., M. S.
Director of Printing

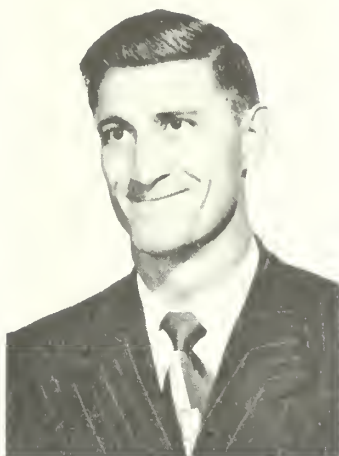

Arkansas State College has one of the most modern printing plants in the South, and its Printing Department is becoming well known in the printing and publishing field for the fine students that it is training. As a result, the Department has been approved for Vocational work by the State of Arkansas and the Federal Government.

Graduates of its four-year course have excellent opportunities for careers in the printing industry in presswork, linotype, make up or bindery work, or they may go into the journalistic field since the curriculum also includes a journalism minor. For those desiring to be teachers, a curriculum has been set up to include education courses necessary to meet teaching requirements. On the vocational level, a two-year course has been approved for those not desiring an academic course, and several Korean veterans have enrolled.

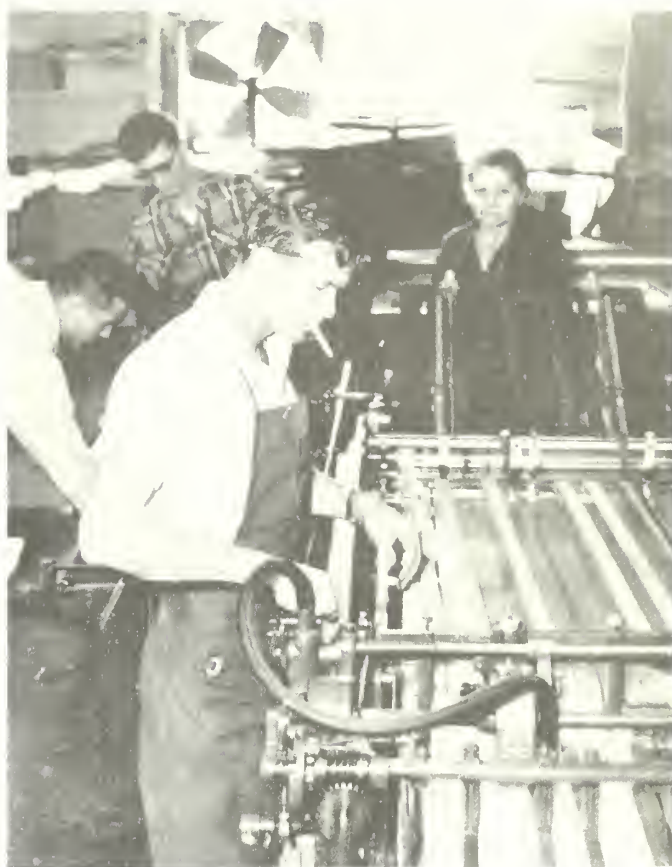

Students enjoy setting type, making-up, printing, and folding the HERALD, ALUMNI CHIEF, and the catalog, plus designing their own stationery. They have re-organized the Graphic Arts Club, and among the outstanding events planned for the year are the annual Christmas Dinner Party and the Spring picnic.

Instruction is offered in all phases of typesetting and layout as students hurry to meet deadlines.

teaching

Giving future teachers all the newest ideas for stimulating interest in their fields, the Education Department has continued to grow under the capable leadership of Dr. Paul E. Couch. Through his efforts the department has become well-known throughout the Mid-South as a teacher-training center.

Soon to assume the responsibility of molding tomorrow's citizens, these students have been taught to assume their responsibilities in a democratic and effective manner, and to develop a practical common sense philosophy of education that is sound, workable, and expandable.

In addition to the regular term students, this department offers five-week terms and Saturday classes for the benefit of teachers in the area. New this year were the Graduate classes for those desiring a Master's in Education.

Through the Demonstration School which consists of six grades, students are given a chance to demonstrate their abilities using modern equipment and the latest methods in teaching. Through a grand program, the children are taken on field trips, present programs, and do outstanding work in art, music and other fields. Students also teach in the various areas surrounding State which cooperate in giving the students classroom experience in all twelve grades.

A placement bureau is maintained by this department for the purpose of securing positions upon graduation. Numerous are the graduates now teaching nearby, and their reputations are living examples of the good job this school is doing in preparing its students for their work in various fields. Typical is the statement of one superintendent, "Arkansas State College gives me the best."

We feel a deep pride in knowing that State is progressing each year, and that we are a part of that growth. With each improvement we should strive to improve ourselves to be true representatives of this, our community.

The Department of Science includes the subdivisions of chemistry, mathematics, engineering, physics and biology. The elementary courses of these subjects have a broad educational aim from the standpoint of developing correct habits, attitudes, appreciations and ideals. Upon the knowledge represented in these sciences all the modern developments from atomic energy to lifesaving antibiotic drugs have depended. Knowledge of the basic principles of these subjects will give understanding and interest to everyday living. Life becomes more meaningful and worthwhile as one comes to understand the forces that add to one's comfort, convenience and pleasures.

Within the past few years many new teaching aids have been added in the department such as: geiger counter, opaque projector, microprojector, voltmeter, optical bench, colorimeters, optical disc, charts and many useful items of equipment and materials.

The department is well equipped and is superior to many schools of larger size in its well-furnished lecture rooms and laboratories. The advanced courses are designed for those who will find a need for them in their chosen vocations, ranging from teaching and research to medicine and engineering. Students should strongly consider the possibilities of the training obtainable in the field of science, and their value in the service of mankind.

Apart from the outstanding work that has been done in the major sports, the Department of Athletics and Physical Education has many important phases concerning the entire student body. Students in all departments enjoy the advantages offered in various subjects, and spend a great deal of time participating in the intramural program which offers the opportunity to meet practically everyone and adds the good feelings between students and faculty that participate. Basketball, badminton, volleyball, speedball, touch football, tennis, archery and other games are included in the program.

A new golf course was laid out northeast of the campus, and golfing was included in the physical education curriculum. The swimming pool was painted and remodeled and was open to the students five times each week. Senior life-saving was offered, and in the spring a swimming meet was held.

"Play night" is one of the most enjoyable phases of gym life. Each Tuesday night the gymnasium was filled with all types of sports lovers, faculty and students, who played together forming solid friendships while demonstrating expert ability.

The only college in the state, with the exception of the university, where a degree in Agriculture may be obtained, Arkansas State is located in one of the finest agriculture areas of the nation and lends itself admirably to a teaching program of agriculture and its related industry. The College farm is well equipped with buildings, livestock, and machinery for use in the instructional program, having just this year purchased a $45,000 dairy herd. As far as is practical the laboratory method of instruction is used, employing the facilities of the community as well as those of the College farm.

This department gives thorough preparation in the sciences basic to agriculture, provides instruction in the applications of these sciences to agricultural practice, and offers a liberal, as well as a practical general education. Preparation for professional and vocational services in various fields of agriculture is outlined, and general preparation is given for farming and rural life.

Agri majors are a jovial group who add much to the life of the school with their continuous bug collecting, early-morning excursions, field labs and general activities.

Enrollment in the ROTC Program for the third successive year has broken all post war records. Four hundred and twenty-five cadets enrolled in all classes. The Advanced Course Enrollment of 90 almost tripled that of September 1951.

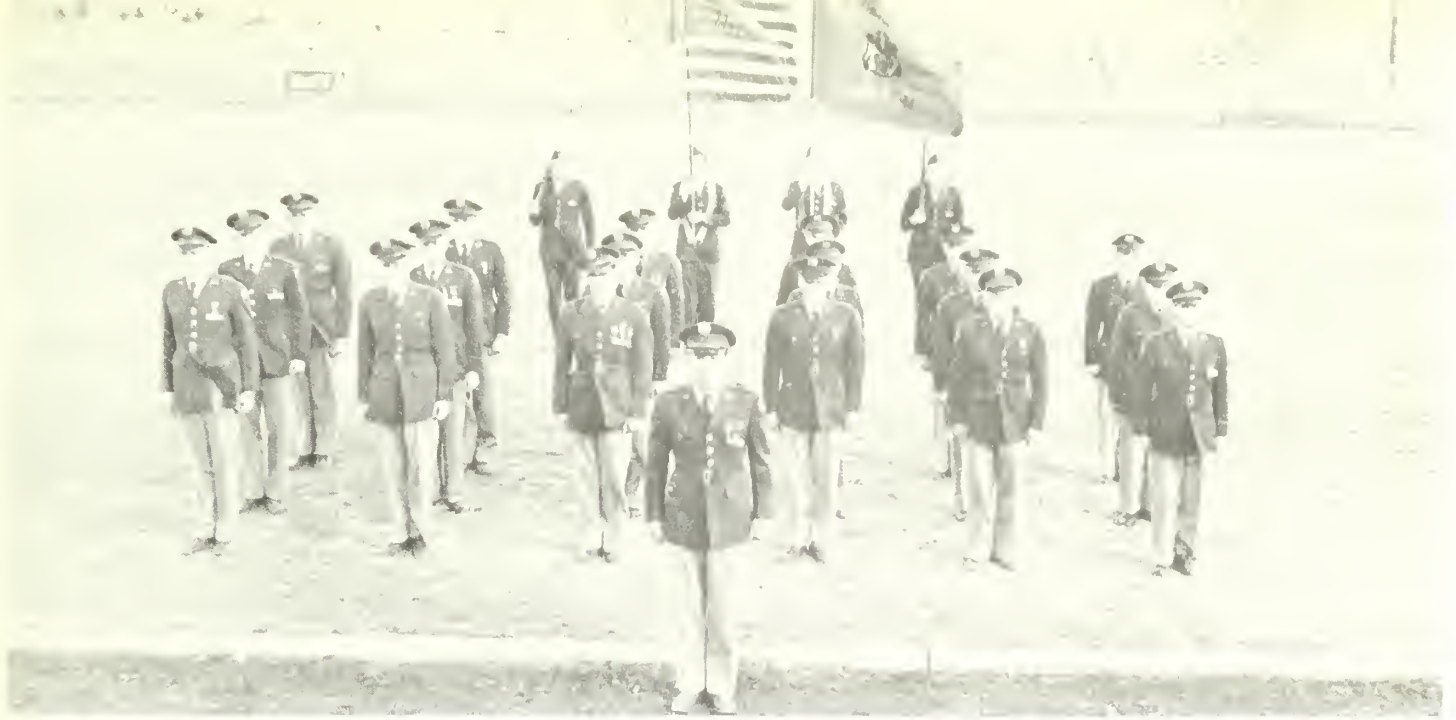

The Department of the Army selected Arkansas State College as one of twenty-five units in the nation to test a General Military Science Curriculum for school year 1952-1953. Under this program, members of the advanced class will be selected by the Department of the Army for commission in various arms and services based on the recommendations of a board composed of academic and military faculty members. The cadet begins his branch specialization at the ROTC summer camp of the arm or service to which he is detailed.

With pride, happiness, and just a little regret, you Seniors will receive that elusive sheepskin and step out into the careers that await you. . . Later there will be reunions, but always close to your heart will remain the memories of the good times you had in your collegiate years. Occasionally incidents will bring to mind happy times spent with close friends. . . the ball games, the endless hours in the Wigwam, midnight gab fests in the dorm, favorite professors, the "big" dances, parties. . . these and many more memories fly back, overlapping one with the other, and yet giving you a feeling of satisfaction, loyalty, and belonging. For you are a part of Arkansas State, and your college experiences will influence the remainder of your life, shaping you into a well-rounded individual. . . Whenever you return to your Alma Mater, you'll hear those same friendly "hello's", find your favorite teachers, the Wigwam, the dorms, and tho' the faces of your classmates are absent, you will realize that this is the same old A.S.C. . . your "alma mater" . . . your college home.

Eddie Groblebe leaves the campus this year after four vivacious years. He has been invaluable to the band and his good nature was contagious. Above left, working up a new routine and below, at basketball game half-time he gave Mr. Keister a laugh with his imitation of a co-ed.

eddie and the majorettes

Evaluating team for teacher training gave ASC a high rating.

One of the many museum exhibits was the china display which Brenda Stuck beheld with wistful eyes.

events

The completion of the beautiful Baptist Student Union Building was the major addition to the campus in '53. Mr. James Reed is serving as full-time secretary.

freshman

Camera shy freshmen were forced to button for the photographer. Check the chassis.

Initiation was full force with buttoning, squirming wearing of traditional beanies, the bonfire, walkout and, finally, Kangaroo Court. A lively, ambitious class put a shot in the school spirit during the period.

Lowly freshman squirms for mean upperclassmen Blackwood, Ferd Ennis, Huff, Danner-Dave and Dub.

Beverly Mullins' verdict was carried out in Kangaroo Court as she shaved Prexy Charles Rasberry's legs. Booger and Houston kibitz.

initiation

Jean Welch and Joe Bumpus just walked by.

Preparations for the many floats took lots of time and effort on the part of various organizations. Here the world is in the process of construction. In the background icing is put on a cake.

extra-curricular

Windows of the new BSU Building take a cleaning as preparations are made for Open House.

who's who in and

These thirteen students were selected by a Student-Faculty Committee here on points of leadership, citizenship and grade point average. They will be listed in this year's "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" as representatives of Arkansas State College.

George Bell of Weldon is a senior who for the past four years has been active in the Independent Student Organization, serving as president and their representative to the Arkstaters. He is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Beta Beta Beta, Statesmen, Student Government Association and served on the Danner House Council.

Margaret Ann Cooper has lived on the campus for years and attended both the demonstration school and State High. This year she served as president of Alpha Gamma Delta and Pan-Hellenic, and is a member of F. T. A., and the Home Economics Club elected her the state Vice-president at convention. She was a co-chairman of the Religious Emphasis program for 1952.

Charles Frierson, a senior from Jonesboro, has recently been re-elected president of Pi Kappa Alpha and is currently serving as president of the Arkastaters. He has membership in the Cadet Officers Club, Student Government Association, Mu Phi Sigma, Inter-Fraternity Council, Pre-Law Club, Student Leaders, Choir and ASC Singers. He is Co-Chairman of the Religious Emphasis program for 1953. Charles was a tenor in the famous Pike quartet of 50-52.

Mary Ann Donaldson, honorary cadet colonel since her freshman year, is an Indian Beauty, and Homecoming Maid. A junior from Jonesboro, she is a majorette with the college band and past class officer. Re-elected as president of Phi Mu, she is also a member of Pan-Hellenic and the Student Government Association.

Max Gregory of Paragould, a senior, served as president of Pi Gamma Mu, Cadet Officers Club, and BSU. He was Co-Chairman for Religious Emphasis Week program of 1952 and was a member of the Accounting Club and the Student Government Association.

Jo Daugherty, this year's Indian editor, also served on the Herald Staff. She is president of the Associated Women Students, 2nd vice-president of Student Government Association, president of Lewis Hall and is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi, Pan-Hellenic Council, WRA, Press Club, Wesley Foundation, and El Circulo Espanol. She served on the WRH Council and was a dorm counselor last year. In February, Jo was selected as Sigma Pi Sweetheart and elected an Honorary Cadet. A junior, her home is in Hardy.

Lowell Fenner is our versatile dramatic student from Cocoa, Florida. He is a member of Alpha Psi Omega, Masquers, Tau Kappa Epsilon and starred in a number of plays during the past four years. One of the disc jockeys on the popular "Campus Show," Lowell has added a great deal to school life and activities.

Ellyn Hall is a three-year graduate from Weiner. She is a member of Phi Mu, Kappa Delta Pi, WRA, and Beta Beta Beta. Ellyn is outstanding in sports and plans to teach physical education next year.

David "PeeWee" Morris of Osceola was this year's active president of Student Government Association, president of Pi Kappa Alpha and the junior class, and member of A Club, Cadet Officers, Rifle Team, Agri Club and founder of the Red Hat Drill Team. David previously attended a military academy and has gone as high as possible in the R.O.T.C. department.

Joyce Pasmore of State College, whose parents are on the faculty, has more than gratified them. This year's Editor-in-Chief of the Arrow, she is an honorary Lt. Col. in the R.O.T.C., president of Kappa Pi and the French Club, a member of Alpha Omicron Pi, Choir, and a class officer.

John Koldus, a senior and an excellent athlete, hails from Gary, Indiana. He has participated actively in golf, baseball, basketball, boxing and especially football, having been a candidate for "Little All American" two years. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, Cadet Officers Club, Statesmen, and Newman Club.

Ellen Williams of Franklin served as the first president of Phi Mu on the campus. She represented Arkansas State in the Maid of Cotton Contest in 1949 and is known as one of the prettiest girls in school. Ellen is an Arkastater, member of the Home Economics Club, president of WRH House Council, and a member of the Associated Women Students Council. This is her fourth year at State.

Eddie Groblebe, "Mr. Friendly on the campus," has been State's pride as drum major of the college band for the past four years. He has performed the impossible with his baton, skating in the Blytheville parade, twirling with fire, leading the Mardi Gras, spinning baton at basketball and football games. He was a popular student and his talent will be greatly missed.

student government

Hard-working representatives of the student body, the Student Government Association, began their activities for 1952-53 by being on hand to welcome the freshmen students, who proved to be a spirited, co-operative class. After instructing candidates and holding the freshman election, Wednesday night and after-game dances in the Wigwam were arranged. Attention was then turned to the Homecoming plans for which SGA assumed complete responsibility. For the first time in Homecoming history the dance was free of charge. Numberless committees were appointed to take charge of coronation for the Queen, the parade, pre-game ceremonies, clubs to inform on floats and election requirements, the chapel program and homecoming smorgasbord held for alumni. The night before the dance a special meeting was called to complete the dance decorations and events progressed smoothly from a successful dance to a winning game Saturday night. After every SGA meeting a paper was published covering the business discussed to distribute to the student body. A television set purchased by the student government was moved to WRH for better convenience of students.

In cooperation with the Jonesboro Jaycees, the Crusade for Freedom was sponsored by SGA on campus, and the campaign to put Scotchlite on car bumpers was promoted. Decals were sold of the Indian motif for cars and suitcases.

An instigator for the State Student Government Organization, our SGA was host to the college student governments of the state in the April convention here. Through this organization the student governments arranged to exchange two chapel programs throughout the year.

Filling out Crusade for Freedom cards are Miss Lane, Advisor, Gene Foreman, Ruth Rogers, Sophomore Representative, and Charles Frierson, Senior Representative.

In closing, we present the preamble of the Constitution:

We, the students of Arkansas State College, desiring to assume certain responsibilities and privileges of self-government, to strive toward higher academic standards, to promote democratic principles, to foster close cooperation between students and faculty, to encourage worthwhile projects in the interest of the entire student body, and to serve the general welfare of the college, do ordain and establish this constitution within the limits defined by the President and the Board of Trustees of this institution.

"Homecoming was a great success," stated Colonel Haberer, faculty advisor, as Mr. Kilgallen, also faculty advisor, Pat Simpkins, Junior Class President, Houston Garner, Sophomore Class President and Jo Daugherty, 2nd Vice-President, agreed.

arkastaters

The Arkastaters, through the combined talents of Gene Boucher and Joyce Pasmore, constructed an appropriate float for the Homecoming Queen during the first semester. Throughout the year, the Arkastaters have carried on registration for various meetings, including Senior Day, Arkansas Student Government Conventions, and the Arkansas Teachers Association meetings. Also throughout the year, members have conducted tours of the campus for various visiting groups. A directory for the Administration Building was ordered and paid for by the Arkastaters.

The Newman Club is a religious organization for Catholic students at Arkansas State, and is a branch of the National Federation of Newman Clubs. These affiliations are established on the campuses of secular colleges and universities throughout the United States. The main purposes of the Club are to offer religious and spiritual guidance and to provide a social program for the Catholic students.

baptist student union

Baptist Student Union strives to fill the needs of students through Christian activity and service on the campus and in the local churches. Probably their most outstanding accomplishment of this year is the completion of the new modern brick building.

One of its highlights is the annual B. S. U. Banquet held in honor of their elected sweetheart, this year Mildred Cole. Their activities include participation in the White Christmas Program, Religious Emphasis Week, and the State Convention.

The International Relations Club serves as a promoter of interest in international affairs. It was host in December to the Southwest Regional Conference of International Relation Clubs. This was the first time that any I. R. C. Club in Arkansas had been host to a regional conference. A distinguished guest, Mr. C. T. Miao, who is attached to the Special Services of the United Nations, was brought to the campus for the conference through the courtesy of the ASC administration.

ministers' fellowship

Students studying for the ministry are eligible for membership in the Ministers' Fellowship Club. Through the personal influence of its members, this club helps create a more understanding relationship among all religious denominations on the campus.

An organization quite active on the campus is the Masquers, composed of students interested in the theatre. This group has presented the plays, OUR TOWN, JOHN LOVES MARY, and several one-act skits all of which have been highly successful. Sponsoring the club is Mr. Richard D. Meyer, head of the theatre division of the Fine Arts Department.

press club

Interested in Journalism? Then you probably already know about the Press Club, the campus organization which serves to acquaint students with the "know how" of the newspaper world. One of the greatest events sponsored by the club comes in April, when Journalism Day is held for high school students specializing in this phase of writing.

graphic arts club

Under the leadership of Cecil Adams and the guidance of Louis Tassi, club advisor, the Graphic Arts Club has had a successful year. At the Club's bi-monthly meetings, films and speakers helped to motivate an interest in the Graphic Arts. Social functions such as the Christmas Dinner helped to perpetuate fellowship through social participation, and members strive to further the aims of Arkansas State College.

agricultural club

Yes, you are now focusing your eyes upon the oldest organization of the campus—The Agri Club. At one time known as the Horn & Hoof Club, this organization, founded in 1917, has sponsored numerous annual events, the outstanding being Agri Day. As the school years slides to a halt—sometime in May—the Club presents a medal to the outstanding agriculture student of the year.

home economics club      non-commissioned officers

For those interested in furthering their careers in the field of Home Economics, the club pictured here serves just this purpose. Included in this year's activities were delegate participation in the province workshop held at Tennessee Tech and members attending the state convention in Little Rock. Mrs. Mary Rogers Brown, head of the department, selects the outstanding freshman Home Ec. major who is recognized on Honor's Day.

The Non-Commissioned Officers Club includes in its membership those men of sophomore standing. Bimonthly meetings are varied with social gatherings as well as regular business discussions. Among the activities in which NCO participates is the building of a float for Homecoming Parade.

Okay, you future chemists, it's time you turned your attention toward the Meter-Liter Club, the organization on the campus which is composed of persons interested in the various phases of chemistry. Lively discussions and oftentimes filmstrips corresponding with the subject comprise the procedure of the meetings over which Howard Moore, 1953 president, presided.

'A' club

The "A" Club represents those who are especially interested in some phase of sports. It is an organization composed entirely of lettermen in football, basketball, track, baseball, and ROTC rifle team. The group endeavors to improve school spirit and to maintain cooperation among intramural activities.

engineering club

The members of the Engineering Club are fundamentally acquainted through their numerous meetings with the problems of the profession they have chosen. Their annual activities are climaxed by a St. Patrick's Day celebration, at which time the selection of "Miss Slide Rule" is announced.

language club

These two organizations represent the students of French and German at Arkansas State College. Each club holds separate meetings at which films and slides are exhibited, group singing is practiced, and dialogues and games are enjoyed. Social events include a fall and spring picnic, a Christmas party, and a five-day tour in the spring to the Natchez Pilgrimage, the battlefield at Vicksburg and New Orleans.

This organization strives to promote wholesome and healthful recreation and to create a spirit of good sportsmanship among the students. The new point system enables qualified girls to be awarded letters toward the end of the year. The winning team participating in Intramurals is awarded a large trophy and the individual with the highest number of points is given an electric clock. Several members of WRA attended the dance clinic at the University of Arkansas.

The historical society was originated under the leadership of Dr. Homer C. Huitt, departmental head. The society was instrumental in the founding of a museum on the campus. Legends, stories, and traditions of the region of Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missouri are collected and preserved by the society. The preparation of a float for homecoming has become an annual project of the society.

faculty womens club      pre-law club

The Faculty Women's Club is composed of women members of the faculty and wives of faculty members and executive staffs. Their main projects are to sponsor the Dames Club and to award a scholarship each year to a deserving woman student. Other projects include planning the President's Reception, sponsoring a Tea for Mothers of girls attending school, a senior breakfast and a formal Christmas Dinner-Dance annually.

The Pre-Law Club serves as a promoter of interest in the preparation for a career in law. Noon meetings are held every two weeks, sometimes featuring prominent local attorneys, who are invited to speak on legal procedure. Along with promoting several projects of its own, the Pre-Law Club has taken an active part in campus activities.

dames club

Say, if your husband is attending college and has to spend most of his time on studies, we have a solution that really helps. The Dames Club, exclusively for married students and wives of students, furnishes the opportunity for members to meet and exchange social and family ideas. Among the annual affairs sponsored by the Dames Club is the banquet and open house--this year held in their new room in WRH--in honor of their sponsor club, The Faculty Women.

1st row—Mrs. Jasper Brown, Mrs. Wesley Ross, Marvin Kesterson, Mrs. Virginia Kesterson, Mrs. Preston Dickerson, Mrs. Don C. Gibson, Don C. Gibson, Mrs. C. E. ## improvements

A general face-lifting has pervaded the Armory and surrounding grounds throughout this past year. Since the new $15,000 floor was laid two years ago, planning has led to private offices for all the staff, a renovated pool, classroom modernization, new rest rooms, concession stand, and tile flooring in the halls. The golf course was opened and the grounds seeded, giving the "new" look to the Physical Education Department.

The pool, classrooms and offices shine after being remodeled.

indians massacre memphis navy in initial game.

A 39-0 whitewash ushered in the 1952 Indian football season at Millington Naval Air Force Base where the Indians combined a bruising offense and a stonewall defense in walloping the Sailors for their first win in the initial game of the year.

The Redskins left no doubt as to their scoring ability. State kicked to the Middies to start the game. They held for four downs, and then scored their first touchdown in three plays.

It was impossible to single out an individual star as the Indian juggernaut picked up yardage. Richie Woit, most valuable player in the Refrigerator Bowl last year, tallied three touchdowns; Buzzy Gebert hit pay dirt twice, and Rudy Wagner added one.

Ohio Northern University's "Polar Bears" fell prey to a devastating ground attack, coupled with an infrequent but potent aerial game in the Indians' home opener.

The Tribe scored in every quarter of the game as they completely over-whelmed their intersectional foe. Coach England's crew lost no time in grabbing an early lead. As in the game with Memphis Navy, they scored the first time they gained possession of the ball.

Not to be out-done, the Indian defensive team proved once more that they were as tough as their reputation. Time after time the State defenders rushed into the Ohio secondary to throw a play for a loss.

It was 60 minutes of sheer murder as the Tribe swamped Ellington Air Force Base, 48-0, for its third win of the year. The rampaging Indians started slowly, but, after Weit scored the initial tally, they caught fire and were never headed. The Indians could do no wrong as their drive gained momentum. Richie Weit, already the nation's top scorer, added four touchdowns to his five scored in the two previous games. Reserves played almost the entire last half. They were a tower of strength and held the Flyers scoreless until less than three minutes remained in the game.

indian attack stopped by powerful mississippi state. 41-14

The Indians lost their first game of the year to the power-packed Mississippi State Maroons in a game which was supposedly cut-and-dried before it began.

The game was to have been a breather for the Maroons, but the Indians failed to follow the script as they fought all the way to the wire. Except for a few bad breaks throughout the course of the game, the outcome could have been entirely different. Even in defeat, State showed up well as the performances of both the offensive and defensive players left nothing to be desired.

plucked by eagles for second loss, 21-13

A rugged Tennessee Tech eleven handed the Indians their second defeat of the year before the largest home crowd of the season. The Eagles' defense completely stopped the Tribe's running attack and halted their passing game as well. The Indians didn't score until the waning seconds of the second quarter. Sommers passed to Ronnie Allen who ran 19-yards to the 30-yard line. Allen was hit but lateraled to Woit, who scooted the rest of the way for the score behind timely blocking.

A paralyzing running game which had been absent for two games returned to the Redskins in time for their battle with Lewis College in the annual homecoming game. The Indians crushed last year's Corn Bowl champions, 42-0.

Buzzy Gebert provided the most sensational runs of the game with jaunts of 21, 23, and 35 yards. Billy Sommers also gave the fans a thrill with his passing exhibition. Bill hit on five of seven aerial attempts.

In their last regular season game, the Indians massacred the hapless Emporia State Hornets, 41-7, as they registered their eighth victory of the year against two losses.

indians attend second refrigerator bowl

Arkansas State's gridders playing a return engagement in the Refrigerator Bowl at Evansville, Indiana, put their worst foot forward and collapsed before a near-inspired band of Western Kentucky State Hilltoppers, 34-19, before a crowd of about 9,500.

Arkansas State was without the services of star half-back Richard Woit, due to injuries received in a previous game. Two bright spots for the Indians, however, were Manual Vidal and John Koldus. Time after time Vidal reeled off huge chunks of yardage and scored one of the three Indian touchdowns. Koldus intercepted two passes, returning one of them twenty-five yards for the final Indian score; he also played an excellent defensive game.

The Western Kentucky team was sparked by Little All-American Jim Feix. He geared his team's running game with his fine passing to defeat the highly-touted Arkansas State team.
